

#STI: A Modern Take On Sexually Transmitted Infections

Canadian Produced! Designed to fit Canadian educational curriculum and for the health market, the "#STI" series is a creative, dramatic and entertaining experience that pulls no punches in its effort to get the information across. The aim is to promote sexual health and STI education for everyone.

Each episode of "#STI" begins with a health professional informing an unseen patient that they have contracted an STI. The talk is brief and one-sided; we don't see the patient. Then, we're taken back in time into the patient's life, into their circle of friends and their relationships. Which specific moment did the infection occur? Which sex act? Which sexual partner? As the drama unfolds, there are many misdirects that poke lighthearted fun at STI misconceptions. The drama reaches a natural conclusion revealing the real moment of contraction and the identity of the mystery patient.

Before the credits roll the episode returns to the health professional and winds back time to summarize the lessons learned. What did the other characters do in their sexual scenario to prevent an STI, and what should our patient have done to do the same?

No one wants to be getting 'that' news at 'that' free clinic. It's awkward, uncomfortable and sometimes life altering, but statistics show that 1 in 4 people will be there at some point in their lives. Sexually Transmitted Infections (or STIs) can affect everyone, regardless of age, gender or sexual orientation. If you are sexually active, you are at risk. Hashtag or not, STIs ARE trending and the goal is to bring viewers the facts on contraction, transmission and prevention and to make those facts stick.

Each episode is approximately 25 minutes and is available in an educational Pop-Up Q&A version as well as a Non Q&A version.

Weekend to Remember (INF05)

Being a teenager is hard enough without the fear of STI's looming over you - but if you're going to have sex, spend less time being afraid or ashamed and more time being prepared and safe. That's something this group are about to learn when one of them is diagnosed with HIV. Shauna, Emily and Kelly are three best friends with different levels of sexual experience. Emily is getting over a bad break up, Shauna has just started having sex with her boyfriend Braeden, and Kelly is thinking about taking that next step with her new boy, Ryan. Through the daily dramas of life as teenage girls, they always support one another and one of them is about to need that support like never before. Watch and see if you can guess which character or characters contract HIV. (Grade 9-12, Adult)

Live Action Role Playing (INF06)

We grow up pretending and playing make-believe and these girls, now in college, are still finding ways to play dress up. Jessica, Emma and Sara are smart, funny and mostly dateless. Emma is the exception; she and her girlfriend Julie are in a fun, new relationship. Sara has no interest in dating which leaves Jessica flying solo without a wingman. At Sara's suggestion she decides to join a LARPing club on campus to meet some of the university's most eligible bachelors. As their dating lives heat up one of them contracts a lesser-known STI called trichomoniasis. Watch and see if you can figure it out before the mystery patient is revealed at the end of the episode! (Grade 9-12, Adult)

Cougarlife (INF03)

STI's aren't just for the young, they are also for the young at heart! This episode highlights one of the fastest growing demographics contracting STI's today: seniors! Linda, Joyce and Rosalee are all new residents in a luxury seaside seniors' community. With unfettered access to the male residents (and employees) these single ladies have a new lease on life and are taking advantage of every minute of it... until symptoms start to pop up. Watch and see if you can guess which character or characters contract syphilis. (Grade 9-12, Adult)

The Wedding Itch (INF01)

A bachelor party heats up leaving one person itching to change his or her choices. Brad and Emily's wedding day is approaching and, despite disagreeing with Brad's decision to take the leap at such a young age, his best man Paul has planned him an epic send-off into married life. As the night goes on Paul learns about Brad's sexual insecurities when it comes to his new bride. Being the best 'best man' he can be, Paul suggests, or pushes, him to use his last 'free pass' with a sexually empowered waitress, Sarah. Watch and see if you can guess which character or characters contracts pubic lice. (Grade 8-12, Adult)
